

Save Lea Marshes

Beating the Bounds

9th May 2021

You may visit the points in any order. At each point you will find a box containing a rubber stamp and ink pad. Use the stamps to complete the table below. Please ensure you put the boxes back exactly where you found them!

Point	Clue	Coordinates	Stamp
	I have a name which sounds like whales . I'm better-known for wines and ales. My name is not on old maps, since In former times I was a prince .	51.5617045 -0.0453984
	I am bridge, a royal part, whose name Is from a former pub. And just beside In twenty-twelve Olympic mayhem came. Alas, we failed to stop it – but we tried!	51.56447 -0.04637
	Near here an early tri-plane flew – The pilot's name was fishy too. And also here: SSSI Rare Fern of Adder's Tongue nearby.	51.56618 -0.04836
	The lands of Walthamstow and Leyton here Are demarcated by a line of trees. It's interrupted by a fence. Keep clear! A horse hotel! So go no further please!	51.56711 -0.04379
	This open space – it's all protected land And yet a huge new ice rink's coming here. This home of reptiles, birds and hedgehogs and Much other wildlife will just disappear.	51.56421 -0.04396
	There's little to be seen beyond the fence. A flat expanse of concrete's all you see. We have a plan – the prospects are immense – To make a park beside the River Lea.	51.5631539 -0.0406217
	This was a place where wildlife lived in peace, But now it features litter, noise and grime. The birds and vegetation all decrease When crowds arrive. This is a wildlife crime.	51.5609554 -0.0319847
	Allotments once at Manor Gardens stood, But then in twenty-twelve Olympics came. They shoved them here, so now this neighbourhood Has less green space: disgraceful, evil, shame!	51.5624123 -0.0265063
	'Twas in the year of eighteen ninety-two The Lammas Lands they tried enclosing here. The folk of Leyton rose up, overthrew The fence, to keep our open spaces clear.	51.56441 -0.02354

